WEEKLY REPUBLICAN—1897
DAILY PUBLIC LEDGER—1899

MAYSVILLE, KY., MONDAY, AUGUST 2, 1909.

ONE COPY—ONE CENT.

POETIC JUSTICE.

I shot an arrow into the air, it fell in the distance, I know not where, 'til a neighbor said that it killed his calf, and I had to pay him six and a half ($6.50). I bought some poison to slay some rats, and a neighbor swore it killed his cats; and rather than argue across the fence, I paid him four dollars and fifty cents ($4.50). One night I set sailing a toy balloon, and hoped it would soar till it reached the moon, but the candle fell out on a poor man's straw, and he said I must settle or go to law. And that is the way with the random shot, it never hits the proper spot; and the joke you spring that you think so smart, may leave a wound in some fellow's heart.

—Cincinnati University Weekly News

In deference to the long continued and faithful services of the late John Feltus, the store of Hon. R. B. Lovel was closed and the entire family attended the funeral of the deceased, which took place this morning at 9 o'clock from St. Patrick's Church.

THE BOOZE SPECIAL

Cynthiana Democrat.

The evening local that arrives on the L. and N. from Paris at 7 o'clock has gained the distinction of being known as the "Booze Special."

As a sample of what the special does, nine Negroes and five white men arrived from Paris one night, each loaded with from a quart to several gallon jugs of bug juice.

Two darkies were taken from a car load of booze at Palmouth. At Cynthiana usually a car-load of booze is taken from the darkies.

Jewels valued at $3,000 were stolen from the home of Dr. C. F. Boggess at Louisville by burglars early Thursday morning.

At Murray, Ky., Mrs. Noah Parks was ironing with a patent gasoline iron. She left it a few minutes, and two of the children began playing with it. They upset it, and an explosion of gasoline fumes followed. The children's clothing caught fire and while Mrs. Parks was attending to them the interior of the room ignited. She was literally cooked from head to foot in extinguishing the flames, but she conquered them. After saving her children from the flames, and saving her residence, Mrs. Parks telephoned for her husband; but she died almost as soon as he arrived.
